

Chameleon

Unlocking the Potential of Female Migrants as Entrepreneurs in the Digital Age

Like Olympians – Celebrating Our Success

October 2022

October saw the end of our Chameleon Erasmus+ project, 24 wonderful months of working with amazing partners across Ireland, France, Spain, Italy, Cyprus, and Portugal. Each partner has brought something unique to this project and this can be seen in the quality of our programme resources. The final conference held at Newham College in London was attended by 200 people – as well as project partners we were delighted to welcome migrant women, students, educators, and other stakeholders.

It has not been an easy time for us as the world went into lockdown at the very start of our project but through persistence and purpose we carried on and now 24 months later we have the most amazing story to share. Next steps for us will be to continue to work as a partnership and support migrant women to live more productive lives.

Why is this project important?

Migrant women face many hurdles in accessing education, training, and business start-up services. This means that, across Europe, migrant women are not well represented in the economic landscape. The Chameleon project aims to address this problem. As this is an Erasmus+ European funded project the resources will be available for free and soon we will be asking for volunteers to help us pilot our programme.
